

Recently I joined other PROTECTORS of people, land and sea at a demonstration in Victoria- outside a hotel where P.M. Trudeau was attending a Liberal Party fund-raising dinner. He did not come out and meet with us, but I am sure he knew we were there. Lots of singing, chanting and drumming.

I took a red dress, the symbol of Murdered and Missing Indigenous Women and Girls. I have been collecting them from friends and thank you for donating them. They will be taken up north to the Unistoten women to hang along the projected pipeline route through the traditional lands of the Unistoten.

The Report of the Enquiry on Murdered and Missing Indigenous Women and Girls makes special note of the vulnerability of indigenous women and girls when there is a “man-camp” near their communities, be they for pipelines, dams, mines, or any large industrial development.

Resistance continues and is growing. Be a PROTECTOR!
